

YOUNG WIFE MURDERER WAIVED EXAMINATION

Committed to County Jail Without Bond by Mayor---Will Probably Be Indict- ed by Grand Jury Next Week

Terwilliger Still Very Nervous and is Apparently Under Great Mental Strain---Passes Quiet Night at County Jail.

Edward A. Barber, father of the murdered girl, filed the affidavit charging Terwilliger with first degree murder, Monday evening at 5:30 before Mayor Atherton and Prosecutor Fitzgibbon.

Unusual precautions were taken by the police department Tuesday morning in getting the prisoner into the mayor's court room for the preliminary hearing, as a large crowd congregated about the front of the city hall as the patrol wagon backed up for its passenger.

The prisoner was hurried into the patrol wagon at the jail and the officers succeeded in attracting very little attention with their man, as they drove up the alley to the rear stairway of the city hall, where he was quickly rushed into court.

There were few spectators in the court room, including the regular visitors, but no demonstration was to be noticed other than a craning of necks to get a look at the murderer.

Mayor Atherton read the affidavit to him, while the prisoner's face was calm and passive, except when the words of the charge of murder were read to him, the very slightest tremor was to be discerned by close observers.

Terwilliger gazed idly about the court room and once or twice addressed the chief in whispering tones. After the prisoner had waived examination, he was committed to the county jail without bond, Chief Zergel leading him down the front stairway where the patrol wagon arrived and returned him to his cell.

Terwilliger's face looked hollow and worn, his eyes blood shot and red, and he appeared nervous as he waited at the stairs under the gaze of possibly a hundred curious people, until the wagon arrived.

The first action to be taken in the case will be before the grand jury which meets next Monday, and Terwilliger's case will doubtless be reached for trial at a comparatively early date.

There were no new developments in the Terwilliger murder case Tuesday morning. The coroner's inquest, which was held at the Nutter home, 31 Harrison street, Monday afternoon, resulted in the finding that Jessie Barber Terwilliger met her death at the hands of an assassin and died as a result of strangling by the murderer.

Turnkey Christopher at the county jail stated Tuesday morning that Terwilliger rested well during the night, and slept some.

The prisoner is now in a much better nervous condition than he was during Monday. He sits quietly without any comment on his deed of Saturday midnight. Only a few times since his incarceration has he given any of his attention to conversation with other prisoners, and sits around his cell in a manner that suggests very slight realization of the enormity of his crime.

While the confessed wife murderer lays in the county jail calmly surveying the grim walls and cold bars that detain him for one of the most fiendish crimes imaginable, neighbors flock to the Barber home on Second Street Hill where a fluttering white crepe mutely tells the tale of an early and unhappy marriage, of the untimely end of a beautiful girl, of the diabolical act of a degenerate wrapped in a depraved and inhuman mind and that curse of curses, an uncontrollable temper.

Friends of the Barber family, former acquaintances of the murdered young woman, have visited the home since the body was taken from the fatal room of the Harrison street residence, and extend their sympathy to the bereft family.

Sunday and Monday, after it became known that a murder had been committed, and as rims of the nature of the crime came to the ears of the public, excitement became intense. Telephone calls came to the Advocate in numbers from anxious and excited citizens desiring to learn every detail of the horrible affair.

The street sale of Advocates so far exceeded the average that it was necessary to print several hundred additional copies, that readers might gain the exact and unexaggerated details of the murder, which has undoubtedly created more feeling in this city than any occurrence in years, and, perhaps, in the history of the county.

Prosecutor Fitzgibbon stated Tuesday afternoon that it would be a hard matter to give any possible idea of how soon the case will come up for trial. He stated that the prospects for the adjourned session of the grand jury were that there would be three or four days' business to be transacted and that he could not state now soon in the order of cases the trial would come up.

The prosecutor stated that the case would only consume a short time in being disposed of after it comes up.

As yet Terwilliger has not employed counsel.

DR. VAN GLEASON AND MISS THOMPSON TAKING PASTEUR TREATMENT

DR. VAN GLEASON EXAMINING PORTIONS OF SPINAL CORD OF W. H. MARSH.

New York, May 26.—Positive proof that Dr. William H. Marsh died of rabies and not from fear or from the effects of the sedatives administered to him by his physician resulted from an autopsy performed on the body.

The presence of the germs of rabies in large numbers in the brain and spinal cord and the total absence of indications of the effects of the drugs satisfied the coroner and his experts that there was no basis for the sensational charges of the Medico-Legal society that Dr. Marsh was either poisoned or frightened to death.

Miss Edna Thompson, the stenographer employed in Mr. Marsh's office, whose chin was slightly abraded by the caress of the same dog that caused Mr. Marsh's death, was greatly annoyed at exaggerated reports of her condition.

"I haven't got hydrophobia or any sign of it," she said to a reporter at her home. "I am taking the Pasteur treatment as a matter of precaution, since there were three little scratches on my chin after the dog caressed me. It is a good deal of a bother and not pleasant, but I am not at all apprehensive."

"Of course, Mr. Marsh's death and the knowledge that the same dog could have infected me has given me a good deal of nervous strain, but I am not worrying."

DIVORCE

Granted Mrs. Ellen F. Vanderbilt by Supreme Court

GETS ABSOLUTE DECREE

Husband Cannot Marry During Wife's Life- time.

No Provision Made for Alimony ---Vanderbilt Inherited $60,000,000.

New York, May 26.—Mrs. Ellen French Vanderbilt was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt by Justice O'Gorman in the supreme court yesterday on the report of David McClure, the referee, who was appointed to take testimony and determine the findings in the suit instituted by Mrs. Vanderbilt.

Justice O'Gorman confirmed the report of the referee that Mr. Vanderbilt had been guilty of misconduct and directed that Mrs. Vanderbilt be granted a judgment of absolute divorce.

The divorce provides that Mrs. Vanderbilt may marry during the lifetime of Mr. Vanderbilt, but prevents him from marrying during her lifetime.

The custody of William H. Vanderbilt, the only child of the marriage, was awarded to Mrs. Vanderbilt. No provision was made for alimony in the decree nor was the subject alluded to in the report of referee McClure.

The referee's report developed that testimony had been secured from Mr. Vanderbilt's wife concerning the misconduct of his employer on a railroad train a year ago last October in Virginia. Mr. Vanderbilt inherited upwards of $60,000,000 from his father, the late Cornelius Vanderbilt.

The crisis in the domestic affairs of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt developed on April 1st, when Mrs. Vanderbilt filed an action for divorce against her husband within an hour after he had sailed for England.

ROOSEVELT REFUSED

HERO MEDAL AND COLONEL STEWART WAS "EXILED" TO ARIZONA.

Friends of Officer State President Shot Spaniard in the Back—War Department Denies Report

Washington, May 26.—The case of Col. Wm. F. Stewart, the coast artillery officer, who has been "exiled" to the President to Ft. Grant, Ariz., will not be allowed by Col. Stewart's friends to rest after the adjournment of Congress.

It was learned yesterday from Senator Bayner of Maryland, the officer's champion in the senate, that legal proceedings are to be brought to compel the secretary of war to grant Col. Stewart a court of inquiry, as provided under the articles of war.

These proceedings will be begun in the District of Columbia courts soon after the adjournment of Congress.

Senator Rayner is investigating a report that Col. Stewart, as a member of a military board, voted against awarding a medal to Lieut. Col. Theo. Roosevelt on the ground that Colonel Roosevelt shot a Spaniard in the back.

The war department denies the report, but Senator Rayner is going to run it down if possible. If it is true, he says he can show the country a new motive for the President's action.

Several senators made inquiry at the war department as to the truth of the alleged motive for the President's action in the Stewart case, but Adjutant General Ainsworth denied the correctness of the story.

A car which was wrecked in the western end of the city was taken into the car barn at 11 o'clock and was guarded by 15 policemen. Rocks were hurled and more shots were fired by the bluecoats at the crowds. During the entire night, beginning early in the evening, there was trouble.

Late last night a crowd attacked a car at Claymont, near the Delaware line. The crew deserted the car and the mob piled wood, paper and rubbish under the car and set fire to it.

"We had expected that our people would keep order," said Chief of Police Pennington. "I am heart sore, and must admit that I scarcely know what to do. It is possible that we will be forced once more to ask for outside assistance. This will become necessary unless we can secure additional special officers."

Special officers seem hard to get. A number of those who were sworn in last night handed in their stars. It was evident that they had been "seen."

A conference was held just prior to midnight between Mayor Johnson, City Solicitor A. A. Cochran and Chief of Police Pennington. No conclusion whatsoever was arrived at. It is said the advisability of once more asking aid of the Governor was considered, but officials decline to make any statement along that line. Many fear that it will be necessary to place Chester under martial law.

POLICE

Fired Into the Mob Attempting to Wreck Cars

MANY WERE TRAMPLED

Rioters Burn Car After it Had Been Abandoned by Crew

City of Chester May be Placed Under Martial Law and State Aid Invoked.

Chester, Pa., May 26.—Riot followed riot in the street car strike here last night. Mob violence was in force in sections of the city, and not less than a dozen strikbreakers, who were in charge of the cars of the Chester Traction company fared badly at the hands of strike sympathizers.

At 10:30 o'clock a mob of no less than 3,000 men charged a car at Seventh and Edgemont avenue. They had followed the car for four squares and were throwing stones and hooting the police who were in charge of the car, having a number of prisoners aboard who had been creating a disturbance at the car barn.

There were a dozen bluecoats on the car, and each had a revolver in his hand. Following a shower of bricks Sergeant Noden fired into the crowd, and his action was followed by more shots from the revolver of Demby, a colored policeman.

But the shots did not frighten the mob. There were yells of "Kill the police," "Wreck the car," "Shoot to kill." The crowd paid no attention to the officers until the City Hall was reached. Here they stopped and the officers alighted. Sergeant Noden was the first one to make a move. "Get back," he cried; "get back or I will shoot." The crowd did not budge. "Come on, men," he commanded, "Make these people get back."

The crowd turned and women and children were trampled to the ground. The people had apparently been awaiting the withdrawal of the state police. During the last six weeks it has been said, "Wait until the Constables go, then we will have some fun."

The "fun" came last night, when dozens of cars were attacked. One car at Third and Jeffrey street is wrecked, and it is said that there is not a car in the barn which is in anything like good condition.

A bullet went through a Hargreaves Hotel window, narrowly missing several men who were drinking at the bar.

NATURE AND A WOMAN'S WORK

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Nature and a woman's work combined have produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they relied upon the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease and mitigate suffering.

The Indians on our Western Plains to-day can produce roots and herbs for every ailment, and cure diseases that baffle the most skilled physicians who have spent years in the study of drugs.

From the roots and herbs of the field Lydia E. Pinkham more than thirty years ago gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills, more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. Bertha Muff, of 515 N.C. St., Louisiana, Mo., writes:

"Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my troubles public."

"For twelve years I had been suffering with the worst forms of female complaint. During that time I had eleven different physicians without help. No tongue could tell what I suffered, and at times I could hardly walk. About two years ago I wrote Mrs. Pinkham for advice. I followed it, and can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice restored health and strength. It is worth mountains of gold to suffering women."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Muff, it will do for other suffering women.

GRANVILLE

Memorial Services Observed at Methodist Church—Annual Commencement at Recital Hall.

Granville, May 26.—Union Memorial services were held at the Methodist churches Sunday evening, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Miller. At 6:30 o'clock about forty of the old soldiers of the village met in front of their hall and marched in a body to the Methodist church, where they took the seats assigned them in the portion of the audience room that had been reserved for them. Dr. Ramsey read the lesson and pronounced the benediction. Dr. Baldwin led in prayer and music was furnished by the college glee club. The Memorial sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Miller from Exodus 12-14, and was listened to with the closest attention by the large audience present.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Moore of Bucyrus, O., who have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. H. N. Brown in Columbus passed through the village on their way home.

Announcements are out for the annual commencement concert to be given at Recital Hall, Monday night, June 8. The concert this year will consist of a joint concert of the Denison and Shepherdson Glee clubs, both of whom have met with unusual success this year. The clubs are to be ably assisted by Miss Emily Farrar, soprano, Mrs. Elizabeth T. Wilson, contralto, Mr. Clarence V. Brown, tenor, and Mr. Ellis P. Legler, basso, all of whom have rare ability as soloists. The combined chorus, consisting of 50 people, will render Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," which will be accompanied by an orchestra of twenty pieces. Dr. Francis W. Sheppardson, Denison '82, of Chicago, has recently composed a new Denison song, which has met with favor, and will be presented by the combined chorus. This concert promises to be the best of the many good ones that we hear in Granville.

A fire on Sunday destroyed a large barn on the farm of Mrs. Emma Jewett, two miles south of this place. The farm is being run at present by Mr. Albert Reed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Mason of Columbus, after a short but pleasant visit with relatives and friends here have returned to their home in Columbus.

Miss Fanny Miller, a most charming young woman of Cleveland, who has been visiting here for some days, has returned home.

Everybody is getting ready for commencement time in Granville. The village is beginning to brighten up and everything betokens the lively times of two weeks from now.

Mr. and Mrs. George Williams of Columbus, who have been visiting here for several days, have returned home.

JERSEY.

A large crowd attended the commencement exercises Friday evening, and enjoyed the program immensely. The class did well and Prof. W. F. Hufard of Ada, gave an enthusiastic address. The expenses of the commencement were about $50.00, and the amount taken in at the door was $65.00.

After the commencement a banquet was held at the town hall, and over a hundred ate supper, after which a program was given.

Mr. A. M. Beem gave exceptional service as toastmaster.

The high school quartet should be especially congratulated for the manner in which they acquitted themselves.

Decoration day services will be held at the town hall, next Saturday at 1 o'clock.

Perry Stevenson, S. Herbert Berger, Arlington Mead, Morris Cross, G. Herbert Berger and Lester Geiger received teachers' certificates at the last examination.

The high school baseball team was to play Alexandria Saturday, but the game was postponed until Monday.

The Jersey big team will play a double-header with Summit on Decoration Day.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN.

Paris is Full of Them; and Nearly All Use Parisian Sage.

In the beauty show at Paris two years ago Gold Medals were awarded to five different women.

To the most beautiful woman between 20 and 25; between 25 and 30; between 30 and 35; between 35 and 40 and between 40 and 45.

A society reporter who interviewed all five women in the interest of his papers, reported that all of them had beautiful hair and that each of the five enthusiastically attributed her luxuriant hair to Parisian Sage.

Parisian Sage is a discovery of the celebrated Dr. Giroux, who spent the best years of his life to perfecting this great hair tonic.

In giving his recipe to the French people Dr. Giroux said, "Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair dressing in the world, but it is more than a hair dressing. It cures dandruff by killing the germs that infest the roots of the hair; it stops falling hair; it gives vigor and strength to the hair roots; it restores gray hair to its natural color."

T. J. Evans, Warden Hotel Block, sells Parisian Sage at 50 cents a bottle and guarantees it to do all that Dr. Giroux claims for it or money refunded. If you do not reside near a druggist who sells Parisian Sage, send 50 cents to Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and a bottle will be sent you all charges prepaid.

ONE OUGHT TO KNOW

HOW TO STRENGTHEN THE ORGANS OF DIGESTION.

A Course of Treatment That Really Cures Indigestion Instead of Merely Relieving Symptoms.

There are plenty of remedies by which you can relieve for the time heartburn, pain and gas on the stomach and can smother nervous sensations and induce artificial sleep. But when you take your next meal all your troubles begin afresh. There is only one sensible thing to do. Strengthen the stomach and do away with the necessity for drugs and artificial foods. The stomach, once in proper condition, will do its own work better than any process devised by man can ever do it. When it is again strong don't abuse it. Learn to choose rational food in general, and to study the effect even of that, as yours may at best be a freakish stomach.

Mr. John N. Dietrich, of 231 East Morris street, Indianapolis, Ind., tried a treatment that has cured thousands and says:

"About four years ago I began to have stomach trouble, which I at first thought was brought on by irregular eating and sleeping while working on the street railways in this city. My condition kept growing worse. I had severe cramps in the stomach if I ate the least thing, even a drink of water would cause them. The cramps often doubled me up so that I couldn't straighten up for some time. Often they would last all day, causing me to go to bed. I didn't have much of an appetite and I was constantly belching gas and sour fluids after everything I ate. I was troubled a great deal with constipation and dizzy spells. My blood seemed to be out of order and I had headaches which seemed almost like neuralgia. I was in a bad state and was in bed for over a week at one time. 'The doctor's medicine did me no good and upon advice of a relative I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Although I had been sick for nearly three years, I felt better right away after taking the pills. My appetite picked up and I haven't had a dizzy spell since. My bowels are regular and I feel fine in every way. I recommend Pink Pills to everybody I can.'"

While so promptly effective, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are entirely harmless. Every despondent should read "What to Eat and How to Eat." Write today for a free copy of the booklet.

Your druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

CANNON

Will be Placed in Position at Cedar Hill Decoration Day, the Carriage Having Arrived.

The carriage for the cannon at Cedar Hill cemetery arrived Saturday and will be in position on the G. A. R. lot Decoration day, thanks to Hon. William A. Ashbrook, who secured the loan of it from the United States government. These old relics of the Civil war are never sold or given away and are only loaned for patriotic purposes. Mr. Ashbrook also bears all the expense from the original shipping place to the cemetery, and the gun and carriage will be properly painted at his expense. The thanks of every ex-soldier is extended to the gentleman for his generosity.

GERMS IN DUST

Government Effects to Eradicate Deadly Danger of Dust in the Sale of Foods.

The government authorities, in their efforts to so regulate the sale of foods as to make it sure that the people's health will be protected, have latterly been investigating the effect of circulating dust in its relation to germ life. They have gone far enough to discover that dust is one of the most dangerous elements people have to deal with. The dust that circulates about a city sifts through the windows and doors of its dwellings, factories and stores, is laden with myriads of germs caught from the breath of diseased persons and animals and from every speck of filth that serves as a breathing space for diseased germs. The health authorities of various states have already made rulings requiring grocers and grocery jobbers to keep such things as dried fruits, butter and various other products under dust proof covers. It is not unlikely that the next move will be the requirement that coffee be sold in dust proof packages. Nature protects growing coffee with a heavy outer hull and a thin skin over the berry. When coffee is roasted, the heat destroys this thin inner skin and leaves the berry with its wide pores open to absorb dust, odors and the infinitesimal microbes that breed disease. In some cases manufacturers have been considerably in advance of the government authorities in their investigations along this line. The Climax coffee, which is sold in this market, has for years been handled in the most sanitary way. As fast as it is roasted, it is packed in air tight, dust proof packages, thus shutting out any possibility of the dangers concealed in circulating dust.

EPILEPTIC FITS

There is nothing more frightful in a happy home than to have one of its members instantly seized with a dreadful attack of Epilepsy or Fits. The many grateful letters from such homes, after the use of Kosine, the remarkable remedy for the dread ailment, testify to the real merit of the preparation.

It is a meritorious article and is sold on a guarantee plan that deserves your confidence. The price of $1.50 will be refunded by Frank D. Hall, if not fully satisfied after using a bottle. Mail orders filled by The Kosine Co., Washington, D. C., or Frank D. Hall, 10 North Park Place.

You have tried the rest. Now try the best—Admiral Coffee.

Flossie's Unique Picnic.

BY MAUD WALKER.

Flossie Wade sat on the porch in a deep study, her brow knitted and her lips pursed up into a severe pucker. "I'm going to do it," she said emphatically, speaking to herself. "I'm going to do it." "Who are you talking to, Sis?" asked a jolly, rosy voice, and Flossie looked up to see Fred Brown standing beside her. "Are you chattering to the porch post?" Fred continued jokingly.

"No, I'm talking to good company," laughed Flossie, her brow smoothing out and her lips losing their pucker. "But how did you creep in here without my seeing you, Mister?"

"I came as thin as air and then materialized," said Fred in a light vein. "Don't you believe in materialization?" "Oh, Fred, stop joking and be serious. I'm thinking."

"Don't do anything so rash," protested Fred with assumed gravity. "Don't you know that thinking is a dangerous experiment in hot weather?"

"Come, stop fooling," commanded Flossie, rising and standing on the porch steps close to Fred. "Now, if you'll be serious for once in your life, Mister Fred, I'll let you into a little secret I have found it impossible to keep without sharing with someone else."

"A thousand thanks for the promised confidence," said Fred with a low bow. "And I'll promise you that you will not regret having chosen me as the happy fellow to own the half of your secret. Is it about a party—or a new frock?"

"Then you think me so silly as all that?" And Flossie's brows drew into a straight line and a suggestion of a pucker came on her lips again.

"No, no," protested Fred. "I was merely guessing. But come, I'll be serious and listen with all my ears."

"Well, I want you to promise to help me out in a scheme," said Flossie. "Don't look frightened, it won't mean very much work on your part; but it will mean some money."

"At your service," said Fred, jingling some small coins in his pocket. "But, Sis, let me warn you to use caution on—him, on the money question. I've got to get—"

"Never mind what you've got to get for Mister Fred Brown," said Flossie coolly. "Now, you know how much has been done these last few years for open-air excursions for the poor children of our town. You and I both started every year, and nearly broke our banks last summer to raise money for the children of the Cripple's hospital that they might have a week extra in the country. Well, I've been thinking of some other poor—children that need a little outing occasionally, and they seem to have been overlooked entirely by those interested in such matters. I want you to help me and—ask no questions. Will you, Fred?"

"Sure, Sis," And Fred put out his hand and clasped that of his little friend in a solemn promise. "And I'll chain my curiosity—I'll ask never a question till the time for questions arrives."

The Flossie unfolded a part of her plan, giving Fred instructions as to what he was to do. At the end of half an hour Fred bade her adieu and hurried off, declaring that since he had to manage somehow to raise money, enough pay for the use of four large picnic wagons for a whole day, and drivers to boot, it behooved him to be getting a move on himself.

The Flossie went into the house and telephoned a message to her young friends asking them to call that evening after supper as she wanted to talk over a plan for a picnic.

That evening Flossie explained to her girl friends who had assembled that her plan was to have a picnic in the big grove near the lake two miles from town, and that if everything went through as planned they would have the outing one week from that day. The girls applauded her plan, thinking it was to be a picnic for young folks, with a few of the mothers as chaperones.

And each girl promised a big basket of luncheon, becoming excited and talking over the many dainty viands that would be most appetizing in the woods.

The week passed very quickly for Flossie and Fred, for both had so much to attend to in completing their picnic arrangements.

"Well, Sis," said Bert the evening before the day set for the picnic. "I've got the money together to hire the picnic wagons. And I had enough left to get a dozen dogs to adorn the wagons. Gee, well swing through town as gay as you please with colors flying and—listen to a band playing. Yep, to Flossie's look of surprise—a real live band of six pieces!"

"Why, Fred, how did you manage to do all that? You are a hustler!" cried Flossie, raising her brows. "And I looked pleased. 'Well, Sis, it's this way. I went to Dad first and told him you had some sort of a picnic—some sort of something for some poor children who had been forgotten by everybody else—and hinted that I'd like for him to give me a little contribution as a sister. Well, Dad likes you immensely, Sis, and he just pulled out a ten-spot and gave me, saying it was to tell you that it was for you he had been so liberal. Now, wasn't he all O. K., Sis?"

"That was just splendid, Fred," declared Flossie.

clared Flossie. "And now how about the rest of the money?"

"Well, you see, I didn't want your little plan to fall through, Sis, so I—I—Well, I put what I had in bank—just a few dollars. No, no, not a word! I won't hear a word about it. It's half my picnic; so I have a right to put in what I please. It was only—Well, it was only seven dollars, you see. Hardly enough to count. The wagons—each with a driver—cost five dollars apiece for the day. You see Dad and I paid for three wagons and a driver over. So I hustled enough from the other boys for the fourth wagon and got that old skunk, my uncle Powers, to contribute a five. Of course, I'm not paying the band full for their services. I asked them if they wanted to enjoy a nice day in the woods, and have a fine luncheon handed in, for a little music, I explained that it was to be some sort of a charity picnic. Well, they were glad enough to go for the outing, and I hope their hearts dictated a little toward the charity end of it. But anyway I've got them, which is sufficient. Well, you see I had a little cash to spare for the dogs and the dealer—Mr. Jones, gave me a great bargain in them, seeing that some of them were a bit soiled. But that'll never show on the wagons."

"The Flossie unfolded a part of her plan, giving Fred instructions as to what he was to do. At the end of half an hour Fred bade her adieu and hurried off, declaring that since he had to manage somehow to raise money, enough pay for the use of four large picnic wagons for a whole day, and drivers to boot, it behooved him to be getting a move on himself."

a poor Italian street organ grinder; and following him the shoe-cobbler and his wife, a nice, jolly faced old German couple who lived in a meager shanty down by the railroad tracks. And ending the procession were six poor stragglers, seemingly not one of them acquainted with the other. Two of the six were women, one a poor seamstress who had just been released from the hospital, where she had suffered quite a severe illness, and the other a dear old woman who lived in a tenement with her grandsons whose small earnings could hardly keep the wolf from the door. The other four were men of poverty, age and ill health, three out of the four being past 60.

Flossie's mother, who was to go with the party as chaperon, looked on the gathering crowd with some surprise, tears of sympathy in her eyes. She had not questioned her daughter regarding the invited, knowing that whatever Flossie did would be perfectly right. But some of Flossie's girl comrades were a bit displeased when they beheld the old, the crippled, the sick and poor, for they had had no notion of anything of the sort.

"Say, Stella," whispered Grace Evans, two of the girls whom Flossie had invited to be of the party, "what do you think of going on a picnic with this job lot of humanity? I think it anything but agreeable. Now, I fully approve of charity—but not of mixing you know."

But before Stella could answer her companion's question a merry sound of music came floating on the air; then the foot, foot, foot, of a horn, and in another minute the four picnic wagons dashed up before the gate, flags flying and the band-boys with faces as bright as the noon-day's sun.

"Now, where's Fred?" asked Flossie, wondering why her assistant and right-hand man had delayed his coming. But at the moment he came dashing through the gate, carrying a box half as large as himself. "Am I late?" he cried in his enthusiasm, wiping the perspiration from his flushed face. "See here, Sis, this box is full of—explosives! I've brought some fireworks. No use having a dull day, I say. Now, everybody in the wagons and let's be off. Where're the baskets? Oh, there they are. Here, boys (to the other boys of his own age), just load in the grub—not into your faces, understand, but into the wagons. Gee, we're going to have a great day!"

Then all was merry bustle, and the old organ grinder laughed so heartily over the proceeding of being "loaded" into the wagon that Stella and Grace caught the spirit of fun and laughed, too, feeling glad after all that they were to assist in making so many poor old folk happy for a day.

And how much the "guests of honor" (as the old and poor were) did enjoy that

HIDDEN ADAGE.

A well known adage is hidden in the following five sentences, one word of the adage being contained in each sentence and all appearing in their rightful order:

A pretty girl wastes much time before the mirror.
All is well that ends well.
To be known as a good man does not always signify goodness.

It's a pretty kettle of fish when two fast friends fall out and quarrel.
There are many days of darkness, though the sun does shine.

LETTER ENIGMA.

My first is in bread, but not in dough;
My second is in meadow, but not in low;
My third is in sun, but not in moon;
My fourth is in badge, but not in coin;
My fifth is the same as my first, you know.

My sixth appears in my second also;
My seventh is in lily, but not in grey;
My eighth is the same as my seventh, too.

My whole is the name
Of a game most dear
To the hearts of schoolboys

TESTED AND PROVEN.
There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Newark readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy every produced such convincing proof of merit.

M. B. Melick, 61 W. Church St., Newark, Ohio, says: "I highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as I used them for kidney trouble and obtained great benefit. I had a constant dull aching across the small of my back which would change to sharp twinges whenever I stopped or overexerted myself in any way. I also had pains in my hips, sometimes so severe that I was forced to take to my bed. I tried numerous and used numerous remedies but obtained no relief until Doan's Kidney Pills were finally recommended to me and I procured a box at Crayton's drug store. After a short use I found them to be just the remedy my system required as they banished my troubles and I have had no return of them since." (From statement given November 5, 1904)

CONFIRMATION PROOF
On Nov. 26, 1907, Mr. Melick said: "I gladly confirm everything I said in my former testimonial for Doan's Kidney Pills, as I have not suffered from backache or rheumatism since they cured me. I am convinced that Doan's Kidney Pills deserve all the praise given them."

Third—Let's have it dug up for a sewer.

Fourth—But wouldn't it be proper to pave it first?

Fifth—Of course I supposed you understood that. Then after it is paved and a sewer put in we'll have it repaved."

"All in readiness to be dug up again for the sewer pipe? I see you understand the principles of municipal economy. And after we have had it repaved for the second time, then what?"

"Well, then it will be in order for repaving. There's nothing I admire so much as system in the care and improvement of our roadways."—London Exchange.

CLEARS THE COMPLEXION OVERNIGHT

Pimples, Rash, Eruptions, Etc. Quickly Eradicated by New Skin Remedy.

Since its discovery one year ago, poslam, the new skin remedy has, in its extraordinary accomplishments, exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the eminent specialist who gave it to the world. It has cured thousands of cases of eczema and eradicated facial and other disfigurements of years' standing. The terrible itching attending eczema is stopped with the first application, giving proof of its curative properties at the very outset.

In less serious skin affections, such as pimples, rash, hives, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, etc., results show after an overnight application, only a small quantity being required to effect a cure. A muddy or sallow complexion is noticeably improved by a single application. Those who use poslam for these minor skin troubles can now avail themselves of the special 50-cent package, recently adopted to meet such needs. Both the 50-cent package and the regular $2 jar may now be obtained in Newark at Frank D. Hall's and others leading drug stores.

Samples for experimental purposes may be had free of charge by writing direct to the Emergency Laboratories, 22 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

REASONS FOR FAILURE.

Some of the Municipal Lighting Experiments That Have Failed—The Causes and the Lessons.

Modesto, Cal., purchased its electric plant in 1890, but has since shut down its generating plant and leased the distributing plant. A well informed citizen says:

"The city was able to buy power cheaper than it could generate it. Moreover, new boilers were needed, the city had provided no renewal fund and the people disliked the idea of bonding. The waterworks also were leased to private parties."

The mayor of Pittsfield, Ill., assigns the following reason for the sale of the electric plant formerly owned by that city:

"Cheaper to pay the Pittsfield Electric company than to do it ourselves. We ran it ourselves for several years and have had it run by contract at least five years, saving money by contracting it to outsiders."

The people of East Chicago, Ind., thought that they could save money by running the electric plant themselves. They bought it in 1900, but by 1903 it was in the hands of a receiver, and as the city was unable to redeem the plant it was sold in 1907, together with a twenty-five year franchise.

The town of Lowell, Ind., purchased in 1901 for $8,500 the electric light plant which had been installed two years before. In 1907 the plant was sold for $2,730, the difference between this and the purchase price representing a depreciation of 10 per cent a year. The purchaser installed a new plant, as the old one was worth only about $1,500 as junk. The reasons assigned for the sale are that the plant was being run at a loss and was in very bad condition, while the town was so heavily bonded that it could not install a new plant. A twenty-five year franchise went with the plant.

According to the mayor, the electric plant at Mentone, Ind., was purchased in 1899 from a private company for $2,000 and was sold in 1903 for $600 because it was a "losing proposition." Another correspondent assigns "poor service and lack of management" as the reason for the return to private ownership.

The electric plant of Lyons, La., installed in 1889 at a cost of $13,000, was sold for $5,000 in 1902 when Lyons was annexed to Clinton because better service could be obtained from a company.

The municipal electric plant of Somerset, Ky., installed in 1903 at a cost of $18,000, was sold or leased to a private company after being in operation about two years.

In 1902 the city of Langdon, N. D., purchased the electric plant from its owners and spent $10,000 in improving it. As it could not be made to pay it was sold in 1906 for $9,000, entailing a loss of $8,500 in three years, not including the loss in operating, which amounted to about $2,000 a year.

The borough of Emmaus, Pa., installed an electric plant in 1899 and sold it five years later at about one-third of its cost. The borough clerk states that the reason for abandoning the plant was chiefly its heavy expense, the lights costing considerably more than the borough could get them from a private company.

Some years ago the city of Dayton, Tenn., purchased or leased an electric plant, but was compelled to return from the business because the expense of running it was about three times the cost of contracting for light from a company.

Kent, Wash. purchased its electric plant from a private company in 1892 and sold it ten years later for about half what it paid for it. The mayor assigns as the reason for selling, "Could not make it pay."

tion of inquiry in the house of representatives with reference to facilities in government buildings in the city of Washington for administering first aid to employees. President Roosevelt immediately asked for reports from the various departments, and it was found that such provision was made in only one.

An employee of the government, a compositor in the department of public printing, whose sympathy was stirred by the sight of employees lying on the floor waiting the arrival of an ambulance for the purpose of carrying them to a hospital, had fitted up a small room in which to care for such employees. As there was no appropriation for supplies, he personally paid for drugs, surgical dressings, bandages and other necessities.

The public printer reported to President Roosevelt that the arrangement had been very beneficial to the employees, as some of the cases were very urgent and need immediate attention, that 1,250 cases have been treated since this emergency room has been installed and that previously it was necessary to send out for a physician, and if he were not at home the employee was left lying on the floor of the workroom or toilet room suffering until one could be located.—National Civic Federation Review.

MEMORIAL DAY

G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans and Woman's Relief Corps Attend Services in a Body.

The Annual Memorial Day service was held at the First Congregational church, this city, Sunday morning. The members of Lemert Post, No. 71, G. A. R., the Women's Relief Corps and the Spanish War Veterans attended the service in a body, packing the commodious church to its utmost capacity. The services recalled the memory of the dead patriots in anticipation of the public service which will be held on Memorial Day. The sermon which was preached by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Warner, the address being one of the most interesting and impressive ever delivered in Newark. Following is a brief synopsis of the sermon.

For our light affliction, which is for the moment, worketh for us more and more exceedingly an eternal weight of glory—2 Cor. 4:17.

In this chapter Paul speaks of the difficulties that he had met in his ministry. He had been perplexed, pursued, smitten down. But he was not discouraged. He took a philosophical and hopeful view of the situation. He believed that these difficulties would result in ultimate glory.

The principle stated in the text is sound. The pathway to glory is through discipline, hardship, suffering. The pinnacle of fame is not reached in a moment. It involves a long, steady, tiresome climb.

This principle applies to nations as well as to individuals. No nation has become great in a day. Nations are born in anguish, they are reared in discipline, they come to maturity through strenuous endeavor.

We find a splendid illustration of this principle in our own nation. Her development has been phenomenal. But the path has been thorny, the way rough. In fact America's difficulties have been the principle factor in her development.

Nearly half a century ago America was plunged into the fiery furnace of affliction. She was tested as gold is tested. But the fiery trial which made her friends tremble for her safety, and caused her enemies to predict her downfall, worked out for her glory such as she had never dreamed of.

War is a terrible affliction. It cannot be contemplated without foreboding. It should never be engaged in except when it is just and necessary. Under any other conditions it is hell. In 1862 the people had to choose between war and wrong. They chose the former, notwithstanding that it involved suffering. Let us try and get some conception of that suffering.

There were the heart-breaking partings. It is not easy to say goodbye at any time. To bid farewell on the eve of war, to leave home, wife, children, parents with the consciousness that probably they will never be seen again, that is difficult, indeed.

There was the suffering at—front. Camp-life has its attractions. But the stern realities of the conflict prove that war is no holiday. The long, weary marches, the lack of food and water, the pain of undressed wounds, the groans of the wounded and the dying, these are some of the stern realities of war.

There was the agony at home. It is a praiseworthy thing to go to the front and fight for one's country. But as great a need of praise should be given to the women who bid their husbands and sons and lovers go. The agony of uncertainty was theirs. To many was added the agony of bereavement.

Many drank of the cup of affliction in those days, but the women drained it to the dregs. When the veterans of the Spanish war passed the house of Helen Gould in New York, on the day of the Dewey parade, they took off their hats and marched by bare-headed. The Brooklyn volunteers halted directly in front of Miss Gould, and gave three cheers. The crowd took up the cheering. One man shouted: "Who was the man of the war?" "George Dewey," replied the crowd. "Who was the woman of the war?" "Helen Gould," came the answer. A policeman said: "She deserves it. Look at what she did for the soldiers during the war." The veterans of the Civil war deserve the highest praise. And so do the women who bade them go.

This is Memorial Day. We meet to honor those who bore the heat and burden of the conflict. Those who sacrificed their lives upon their country's altar. One day, in the Roman Forum, the earth opened, and a great gulf appeared. The soothsayers said that it would never close till it had been fed, with the most precious thing in Rome. There was doubt as to what that was. But a young soldier, armed and mounted, plunged into the chasm, declaring that there could be nothing so precious as a life given for one's country. He was right.

This is Memorial Day. We meet to renew our allegiance to the country and the flag we love. James Bryce, England's ambassador to the United States, says: "America marks the highest level, not only of material well-being, but of intelligence and happiness which the race has yet attained." It is the duty of every citizen to see that this high level is maintained. To this task we pledge ourselves today.

A BIG CONTRACT.

IDLEWILDE PARK.

"The Fatal Coin" a play full of Russian intrigue and the efforts of the Nihilists to get redress for their cruel wrongs by taking the law into their own hands, will be the offering at Idlewilde, Wednesday matinee and night by the Pastello Stock company. In this play, perhaps more than in any other of their repertoire, every member of the company takes a leading part. The Pastello Stock company have made a hit here and "The Fatal Coin" is one of their very best plays. The specialties between the acts are up to the usual high standard. Friday is amateur night.

ORPHUM THEATRE.

An entertainment that is complete in every detail and one that is seldom if ever seen for the same price of admission was given at the Orphum last evening. Paul Spessardys bears was one of the big attractions, they showed remarkable training, going through their stunts without a sign of coaxing or urging. They perform many remarkable feats such as ball rolling, bicycle riding, telephoning and a regular dinner served to them the same as a table d'hôte. It is really a wonderful act. The great Richards, the girl or man with the diamond created a sensation, her toe dancing and skirt dancing and her singing constituted a feature of the performance and the big surprise came when the supposed girl turned out to be a man. James Rose with his Hebrew monologue proved very entertaining, his jokes and stories being new and free from all vulgarity. Florence Dow the comic opera comedienne is a winsome little being who sings well and delivers a witty bunch of stories in a delightful manner.

TRUSTEES SAY WHY THEY ASKED BAWDEN TO QUIT

Claim Former Granville Man Went to New Job Under False Pretenses.

The resignation of Prof. H. H. Bawden, the former Granville man, from the chair of philosophy, in the University of Cincinnati not having been presented as demanded by President Dabney, that chair has been formally declared vacant by the university trustees. In a statement the trustees explain that their action was taken unanimously for the following reasons:

"1—Professor Bawden came here under false pretensions, having been dismissed from Vassar college on substantially the same grounds as mentioned under 2. He acknowledges this in his letter of May 3, published in the newspapers.

"2—His manner of life, as well as his teaching, is destructive of the family, the foundation of human society.

"3—After receiving the president's letter, asking for his resignation, Professor Bawden came to the president's office and threatened him with publication of his story and his opinions on the subject, if he did not withdraw the letter. This he afterward did, to the scandal of the university, and the violation of public decency and good morals."

"Uncle Joe" Locke was sent in the box yesterday to work for the Molders and for the first time in his history as a ball tosser he was knocked all over the lot, but the reason is plain. He worked Saturday and then having to pitch again Monday was too great a strain. He worked steady and hard but his at the proper time and errors behind him cost us the game. The boys from the Valley city are one earned run to the credit, and it doesn't make much difference how they secured the others now, for they did and won the game.

The first two innings passed quietly enough with Piper, the Lunaster busstop figuring on spending a restful day on the bench. In Manager George Fox was booked to catch the game and to hold Bud Scanlon in check if such a thing was possible. He caught about three bulls then a foul tip mashed his finger and Piper was forced to don the mask and go.

When the third rolled around both teams got busy and five runs piled up Newark getting the long end of it. The Lanks shoved their men across with two men down when Brown was passed, reached third on Heller's double and scored on Carter's triple. Heller also trumped home on the swipe, Humphries hit a high one to Snyder who caught him out.

The Molders pounded their runs across through clean connections with Scanlon. Keuhn, the new shortstop, singled cleanly as did Williams, who was next up Locke added to his style of hitting by sacrificing both men a base. Abbott singled and both the runners scored. Snyder tied our to Yost, but Abbott scored on a pretty bingle by Frank (Monday) Locke.

That closed the inning for he was caught between first and second base. The Lanks scored again in the fifth when Piper was walked, reached second on a w. l. pitch, was sacrificed to third by Scanlon and scored on Brown's single. Heller and Carter both flew out to Abbott.

Calhoun ended the bases in the sixth, when he drove deep to left for two bases. Snyder was after the ball but juggled it in trying to pick it up and Calhoun scored on the error. Gowdy singled but the frame was closed on Yost and Piper who were easy outs.

With Scanlon out on strikes in the seventh Brown doubled but held tight to the bag while Heller and Carter fled out to Snyder and Locke. Another runner scored for the visitors in the eighth when Smith wobbled on Humphries hit and Humphries reached first. On a wild pitch by "Uncle Joe" he took second, was sacrificed to third by Calhoun and scored a little later on Gowdy's sacrifice to deep center. Yost binged and Piper rang down the curtain by fanning out.

Snyder scored in the ninth when he singled, reached second on Locke's fly-out to Carter and scored on Humphries error of Murray's drive.

Two Bunches.
Springfield, O., May 26.—Springfield bunched hits and Lima bunched errors Monday, and the former won an uninteresting game. Kahl's hitting was a feature. Score: Springfield . . . 10 0 0 0 1 0 5 Lima 0 1 0 0 1 1 0 3
Batteries—Mercer and Zimpher; Garvey and Reilly. Runs—Totman 2; Burt, Bohannon, Spencer; Kahl 2; E. Reilly. Two-base hits—Kahl, P. Reilly. Three-base hits—Garvey, Kahl. Double play Bohannon to Spencer. Left on bases—Springfield, 7; Lima, 7. First base on errors—Springfield, 1; Lima, 3. Bases on balls—Off Mercer, 1; off Garvey, 3. Struck out—By Mercer, 2; Garvey, 3. Passed balls—Zimpher, 2. Time of game—1:10. Umpire—Haudiboe.

Marion, 5; Mansfield, 1.
Marion, O., May 26.—Wilmot, who was knocked out Sunday, went in Monday and had Mansfield at his mercy. Farrell's one-handed catch of Breyer's drive was the best ever seen here. Score: Marion 10 1 1 0 1 1 5 Mansfield 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1
Batteries—Wilmot and Ketter; Comstock, Lloyd and Breyer. Runs—Farrell, 2; Wolfe, Wilson. Wilmot; Jewell. Home run—Wilson. Two-base hits—Farrell, Wilmot. Sacrifice hits—Wolfe 2; King, Wilson. Stolen bases—King, O'Day, Jewell, Mathay, Ketter, Flood. Bases on balls—Off Wilmot, 1; off Comstock, 2. Struck out—By Wilmot, 5; by Comstock, 1; by Lloyd, 3. Hit by pitched ball—Farrell, by Comstock. Left on bases—Marion, 7; Mansfield, 5. Hits—Off Comstock, 7 in 2 1-2 innings; off Lloyd, 6 in 2-3 innings. Time of game—1:40. Umpires—Kramer and Hart. Attendance—500.

Was Released This Morning by the Directors of the Local Club.
Erve Whatten, who has played ball in Newark for several years, was released this morning by the local club. Last year he was one of the stars of the Molder team, but this year he has been unable to play a game that was satisfactory to either himself or the management and for that reason he asked for his release.
Early in the season he injured his ankle during practice and was out of the game for some time. His hitting this year was poor and from batting in third place as he did last season he has dropped to seventh.
After a short rest he may be able to get in the game again but just who he will play with has not been decided and he will take a good rest. He was given his release this morning by Business Manager Maurath of the local club.

Will Bear Watching Says the Cincinnati Enquirer. His Excellent Record This Season.

A young pitcher in the Ohio State League whose work will bear watching is Joe Locke, of the Newark Club. Locke pitched in 18 innings against Lancaster (White pitchers), losing 2 to 2, on Thursday, April 23. He allowed 13 hits, and 68 batsmen faced him. He walked 1 batsman, Brown, in first inning.

He pitched 14 innings against Marion Wednesday, May 6, against Downey and Wilmot, resulting in a tie, 5 to 5. He allowed 11 hits; 51 batsmen faced him. He walked 2 men.

At Marion Wednesday, May 21, he pitched another 14 inning tie, 2 to 2. He allowed 10 hits and walked 2 men. In short, he pitched 46 innings in three games, or equal to five games and one inning; 180 batsmen faced him. He allowed 7 runs, 34 hits, gave 6 bases on balls, no hit batsmen, lost one game and tied two. Bunty Pearce knows all about this fellow.—Enquirer.

KOEHL WON AGAIN.

Tiffin defeated Ashland Sunday at Tiffin, by the score of 8 to 1. Fred Koehl, pitching for Tiffin, struck out thirteen men and allowed five hits.

POSTAL BUREAUCRACY

Russian Repressive Methods in Vogue in the U. S. Postoffice.

A Member of the New York Bar Shows How the Rights of American Citizens Are Construed as Privileges Which May Be Taken Away at the Whim of Some Man Who Has Not Even Been Elected to His Office.

By JAMES F. MORTON, Jr.

The adherents of universal government ownership are never weary of pointing to the postoffice as the crowning illustration of the blessings of federalism. The splendid uniformity and regularity of its operations are held up to our admiration in contrast to the imagined evils of private management of the mails. So loudly are the claims uttered that not one individual in a thousand so much as suspects that there is the least dispute concerning the alleged facts on which they are founded. Yet a little investigation will disclose that even in this branch of service, far more adapted to government handling than almost any other that can be named, there exist, side by side with whatever benefits are found to accrue, the most serious evils and dangers, from which private management is free.

The question of economy would require extended handling, and it is enough for the present purpose to remark that a close investigation in this direction will give the advocates of federal ownership more than one bad half hour. A much more serious phase of the subject is that which concerns the gradual transformation of an administrative function into an autocratic censorship. That such a process should have actually taken place under the fostering care of democratic institutions would be incredible if not proved beyond a cavil.

Here are a few facts: Under the "fraud order" system an individual who has given offense to a single postal official may be driven to bankruptcy without fault on his part and with no hope of redress from the courts or from any other source. An irreversible fiat may forbid all delivery of mail to him as long as he lives and thus effectively cut him off from communicating with his kind. He may be a man of the strictest honesty. A judge and jury may determine his business to be entirely legitimate. Still, one hostile bureaucrat in Washington may refuse him the elementary rights of a citizen. The United States supreme court has coldly ruled that use of the mails is "a privilege and not a right" and that the citizen has no ground for legal complaint if the postal authorities see fit to deprive him of it. In other words, the government first suppresses all competition in carrying the mails, allowing no means of communication except through its agency, and then assumes the right to refuse to any person the service it will not allow him to obtain elsewhere! If there is no menace to our liberties in this, pray where shall we look for such a menace?

That not a mere possibility, but a serious actuality, is here spoken of the case of Helen Wilkins will serve to demonstrate. Mrs. Wilkins published a mental science paper, wherein she set forth the doctrine that mind sufficiently developed and concentrated could become entirely dominant over bodily disease and might in time even achieve the conquest of death itself. She offered her services to re-enforce the wills of those who sought for health and bodily vigor and seems to have actually helped many hypochondriacs and nervous invalids to regain strength by renewing their self confidence and hopefulness. That her practice resulted in harm to any human being has never been shown. There was no deceit in her treatment. Its nature was clearly stated, and only those to whom her theories carried conviction availed themselves of it. In an evil hour, however, she chanced to offend a postal official. As a consequence an edict was promulgated denying her all use of the mails for any purpose. Every letter addressed to her was stamped "Fraudulent" and returned to the sender. The order was extended to the paper, causing its death and depriving her of the right to present her side of the matter to the world. Ultimately all the members of her family were embraced in the sweeping fiat. For something over five years, up to the day of her death, this American woman was officially marooned from intercourse with her kind through the mails. No appeal was of any avail, as the courts refused to interfere.

A similar arbitrary proceeding destroyed the People's Bank of St. Louis about two years ago, although this unique institution was so far from being fraudulent that when thus suddenly forced to go out of business it at once liquidated all its debts, paid all its depositors in full and returned dividends of 85 per cent to the stockholders.

The "second class" mail rulings form a tissue of absurdities which cannot be briefly treated. The luckless publisher without "influence" is treated as a suspected criminal from the moment of his application for admission to the mails—he has either too much advertising matter or too little, his publication is too much given to exploiting the views of its editor, the paper contains too little of general interest, it carries too many exchanges, too many copies are sent to subscribers in arrears, too many sample copies are sent out, and so on. When the publisher in desperation begs for a definite ruling on any one of these points he is lazily told that "the department cannot undertake to instruct publishers." They must know by instinct just what course will keep them clear of Scylla and Charybdis or they are arbitrarily refused "second class" registry, which generally forces the paper to suspend.

The elastic laws against lotteries and obscene literature form another occasion for official abuse of discretion. Vouchsafing no exact definition of either of these terms, the department every now and then pounces on a publication whose editor dreamed of nothing so little as of giving legitimate ground for offense. The Chicago superintendent of second class mails the other day branded as "obscene" a report of the national purity congress! The acting assistant attorney general of the United States has declared a magazine unavailable for containing a simple advertisement of a study of the social evil, written with the most earnest purpose by a former resident physician on Blackwell's island and recognized for fifty years as a classic work of immense value to the sociological student. A former official found indecency in a helpful work on pathless childbirth for the use of prospective mothers.

These are but a few samples of undeniable abuse of authority in the various branches of the postal service, and the like could be multiplied many times. Here the citizen is deprived of his rights with no vestige of "due process of law" as arbitrarily as could be done in Russia. If he appeals to the courts, he is told that there can be no redress, as is clear from the following decision:

The courts will not interfere by mandamus with the executive officers of the government in the exercise of their ordinary official duties even where those duties require an interpretation of law, no appellate power being given them for that purpose. U. S. ex rel. Dunlap v. Black, 128 U. S. 50.

Under these and like rulings the citizen aggrieved by the act of a postoffice official must submit to any outrage that may be imposed on him. The matter has been repeatedly tested, and without any mode of securing relief. The bureaucratic postal regime furnishes one of the darkest and most difficult problems for our democracy to solve. With government ownership of transportation lines and other related activities the possibilities for a complete and perpetual despotism would be enormously increased. After destroying and prohibiting all private modes of conveyance the government might well declare that transportation is "a privilege, not a right," and cut off those whom the executive chose to rate as "undesirable citizens" from all possibility of travel. Until the post-office system has been far more thoroughly democratized it is not a species of insanity to invite our people to embark in enterprises of a more decidedly state socialistic character?

Several Reasons, All of Them Good.

Christiansburg, Va., installed its own electric plant in 1900 at a cost of $10,000. A year or so ago the generating plant was shut down and power purchased from a private company. Now the distributing plant has been sold, the experiment having proved very expensive, according to reports. The mayor writes as follows:

"We had several reasons for disposing of our electric system. First, we owned only the lines in and within a radius of one mile of our corporate limits. The power is generated about fifteen miles from our town and is furnished by the Grayson Electric company. The J. L. Vaughan company has purchased our rights and the Grayson plant. We expect street car and other improvements under individual management that we could not under municipal. Christiansburg is bettered financially, and we are sure that we have made a good deal for our town."

Documentary Evidence of Failure.

The electric plant installed by the borough of McAdoo, Pa., in 1890 at a cost of $10,000 was leased in January last for twenty-five years. In the agreement the situation was set forth by the council as follows:

"The borough is now owner of a certain municipal electric light plant in the said borough and in the operation thereof has encountered certain losses to such an extent that the cost of operation and maintenance, together with the interest on the bonded indebtedness incurred by reason of the erection of the said municipal plant, exceeds the income derived therefrom."

The amount of revenue collected during 1907 is said to have been about $1,000 less than the operating expenses.

Fewer Snags Under Private Management.

By vote of the city council the municipal gas plant of Nashville, Ark., was closed down last January. Although the price of gas was $8 a thousand, the expenses were nearly double the receipts. The mayor writes:

"The reason of such action by the council is that it could not make itself sustaining, but the council has since leased it for two years to the former general manager, who thinks he can make it pay under private management."

The manager evidently knew that with a free hand he could steer clear of some of the snags that could not be avoided under city management.

Brief, but to the Point.

In 1893 the town of Needham, Mass., installed an electric distributing plant at a cost of $13,774, to which considerable additions have since been made. By vote of the town the plant has just been sold for $11,000, and a twenty year contract for street lighting was made with the company that for several years had been supplying the current. The town clerk sums up the reason for this action in one word, "economy."

NEW WAY.

A windstorm visited the northeast portion of Liberty township the first of last week. Quite a number of trees were blown down, and a corn crib on the farm of Mr. B. D. Jackson was blown over.

Mr. and Mrs. Van M. Warner were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Scales, Fredonia, Sunday.

Mrs. S. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Cal Rannels and son Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Powers and Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Powers were guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Snyder, Highwater, the first of the week.

Good For Everybody.

Mr. Norman R. Coulter, a prominent architect, in the Deibert Building, San Francisco, says: "I fully endorse all that has been said of Electric Bitters as a tonic medicine. It is good for everybody. It corrects stomach, liver and kidney disorders in a prompt and efficient manner and builds up the system." Electric Bitters is the best spring medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter; as a blood purifier it is unequalled. 50c at F. D. Hall's drug store.

The Water Question

will not be settled until people realize just what it means to flood the system with the impurities which swarm in the contaminated water, which many of our people are still using.

Remember, that CLEAR WATER is not necessarily PURE WATER, and if pollution could be seen you would turn from it in disgust.

We are offering a Pure Spring Water—analyzed, inspected, guaranteed by our chemist—recommended by your physician as a safe and healthful table water. It costs little. Why not use it and be safe? Ask for one sample and convince yourself.

OBITUARY

MISS MAE COCKINS.

Miss Mae Cockins, aged 25 years, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Baker, on the Granville car line, at 2:15 this afternoon. Death resulted from peritonitis.

Miss Cockins was employed as a milliner at Hanstenger's, and formerly resided in New Concord, O.

No funeral arrangements have been completed.

MISS GERTRUDE McFARLAND.

Miss Gertrude McFarland, a well known resident of Jacksontown, who for the past four years has been living at the country house, died there Monday night at 9:30 as a result of several years of illness due to a complication of diseases.

Miss McFarland was 58 years old and leaves one brother, Will McFarland, of Columbus, and one sister-in-law, Mrs. Lily McFarland, of Jacksontown.

The remains will be taken to Jacksontown Tuesday afternoon where the funeral will take place.

Best Healer in the World.

Rev. F. Starbird, of East Raymond, Maine, says: "I have used Bucklen's America Salve for several years, on my old army wound, and other obstinate sores, and find it the best healer in the world. I use it too with the greatest success in my veterinary business." Price 25c at F. D. Hall's drug store.

SERIOUS

Results May Follow a Fight of Last Evening—Charles Meek in Hospital, Unconscious.

As the result of a fight Monday night about 8:40 o'clock, Charles Meek, a driver, living at 97 Manning street, lies in the City Hospital severely bruised about the head, face and side, and Fred Siegel is under arrest at the City prison awaiting the result of Meek's injuries.

According to the police the trouble originated over a woman, Mamie Bush, 57 East Railroad street. A full sized battle was in progress when Officers Chester, Donnelly and Linke arrived and separated the combatants. Seeing that Meek was in bad shape he was taken to the hospital when the patrol arrived and Siegel was locked up after a stiff battle with the police.

He was slated drunk, disorderly, conducting an assault and resisting the officers. As Meek's condition was reported as serious he was not given his hearing this morning. Dr. W. H. Knapp, prison physician, was called in attendance on Meek and he made a thorough examination. The injured man was unable to tell the physician how the fight occurred, but the bruises over the kidneys look as though he may have been kicked or heavily slugged.

Dr. Knapp was seen this afternoon by an Advocate reporter and he said he could not state the extent of Meek's injuries at the present time.

MINOR

SUES THROUGH MOTHER TO RECOVER DAMAGES FROM JEWETT CAR WORKS.

Three Divorce Petitions Filed—Read Estate Transfers and Court News in General.

Anna Shannon has commenced suit in the Common Pleas court against the Jewett Car company of this city for $1,999 damages growing out of injuries to her son, Charles Shannon, alleged to have been sustained while he was in the employ of the company. Mrs. Shannon says her son was 19 years and four months old on August 1, 1907, and that for more than two years prior thereto he had been an employee of the Jewett Car company. She says that on August 1, 1907, while her son was operating a wood cutting machine, which she says was improperly guarded, the left hand of her son was caught in the machine and the first, second and third fingers were amputated. She says that she has been and still is deprived of the services of her son and that she has been damaged in the nursing, maintaining and caring for him, and in the loss of his services as a result of the injury.

Charles Shannon, by his next friend, Anna Shannon, has also commenced suit against the company for $1,999 as damages for the injuries alleged to have been sustained by him on August 1, 1907.

Divorce Petitions.

Leonard S. Evans has commenced suit in the Probate court for divorce from Sadie B. Evans. The parties were married March 6, 1907, and no children were born of the marriage. He charges his wife with neglect of duty in that she refuses to cook or keep house for him; that she refused to mend his garments or do any work about the house, compelling him to get his own meals. He says she "threatened to kill him and on one occasion struck him with a flat-iron, after which she abandoned him in Cleveland, J. V. Hilliard, attorney for the plaintiff.

Mary A. Hawkins has commenced proceedings in the probate court for divorce from Elmer W. Hawkins. To whom she was married November 1, 1900. Plaintiff says that on December 23, while they were living in Columbus her husband deserted her and since then she has been compelled to live by her own exertions, assisted by the charity of her relatives. L. C. Russell, attorney for plaintiff.

Ada L. Deney, after nine years of married life has grown weary and now seeks a decree of divorce in the Probate court from Henry T. Deney.

CORRECT SHOES

THIS Shoe Store represents good shoe service as distinguished from mere shoe selling.

GOOD shoe service means the furnishing of just the correct shoe suited to a particular requirement.

MERELY to make a sale is not satisfaction to us and merely to buy a pair of shoes is by no means certain to mean satisfaction to you.

We are able to guarantee good service—in its every sense and every meaning—because we are sure of our own intentions and sure of the quality of our shoes.

May we not hope that you will test our sincerity and our judgment next time you purchase shoes?
